

February Sunday Services

February 5 – 10:30 a.m. Standing on the Side of Love: Learning and Loving and the Platinum Rule – Dennis Reynolds

While each of us is shaped by our personal history, we have the wonderful capacity to change, to deconstruct old notions and beliefs, and to learn from many sources how we might build new beliefs and new ways of being that more fully honor love for all.

February 12 – 10:30 a.m. Standing on The Side of Love; Love Whomever You Will – Dennis Reynolds

Amazing progress has been made in our UU congregations and the larger community to move toward inclusion and equity for gays and lesbians and transgendered people. As we celebrate, let's avoid becoming too comfortable and, perhaps, complacent and remain committed to full equity for all.

February 19 – 10:30 a.m. Forging Relationships – Social Action Committee

As part of Social Action Committee's effort to forge a closer relationship with the congregation as a whole, HUUF member Jenny Cranston, a professor emeritus of theater and women's studies at HSU (1969-1992), will lead a Reader's Theatre performance. In the program today, members of SAC will show some of the many activities that the committee has undertaken. The aim is to discover which of these activities, or others, the congregation would like to support in the future.

February 26 – 10:30 a.m. Honeybee Democracy – Joy Thomas and Jack Munsee

What lessons might honeybees have for humans, especially for UUs? Joy Thomas, who has kept bees for seven years, will talk about the method bees use for decision-making when they need a new home. Jack Munsee, long active on the Social Action Committee, will describe how this method could be applied to improve UU meetings. Both Joy and Jack are retired from Cal-State Long Beach, where she was a librarian and he a professor of physics.
